torsion bar, tighten screws 3/4 - 1 full turn after making contact with the bar. Repairing the door yourself can be a daunting task eAAA but so can paying for repairs. If the garage door tries to activate but then reverses, something could be blocking the sensor that tells the garage door opener that iteAAA safe to open or close the door. Garage doors designed for single-car garages only have one spring that bears tension, and that construction introduces a greater risk of injury, which means you should call a professional to adjust or replace the single spring. Wait for the glue to dry and then replace the screw with another screw that has the same diameter but a longer length. If the bolts and screws are loose on any of these components, tighten them. Drill 3/16 inch pilot holes at the marked locations. Professionals can handle many more complicated repairs, but in some cases, you may have to replace the garage door or the opener entirely. Clean the tracks and rollers, if necessary, to remove any dirt or materials that could be obstructing the path and then lubricate using a silicone or lithium-based grease eAAA not WD-40! eAAA to ensure smooth movement. 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33 34 35 36

When youeAAAre in a rush to leave for work or coming home after a long day, few things are more frustrating than a garage door that doesneAAA open and close properly. First, check to make sure nothing is blocking the laser light beam coming out of the sensors on each side. If the motor doesneAAA start at all, it could be either the motor or the remote control. Sections of track that are horizontal should be slanted slightly downwards, but vertical sections of track on both sides of the garage door should be perfectly upright.Evaluate the Garage Door SpringsThe torsion springs on garage doors eventually wear out, particularly on garage doors that are used a lot. Different garage doors may have different insulation ratings. Inspect these parts for signs of damage, especially dents or bends that could be preventing the rollers from traveling smoothly along the track. If the torsion bar is too long or damaged, you may need to cut the torsion bar.Ensure the collar does NOT touch the bearing.Use a level to position and vertically align the garage door opener. There are some DIY models that you can tension without knowing a lot about the mechanics of the thing, but in general, you should call in a professional to help when installing or removing torsion springs.CC0/theredbeardagency/Pixabay

Whether youeAAAre completing a new construction or replacing something old and faulty, garage door installation isn eAAAAt necessarily easy. Torsion springs tend to be quieter and operate better.Public Domain/Oleg Alexandrov/Wikimedia Commons
Torsion Spring DangerThough torsion springs are preferable for a few reasons, they are very dangerous to work with directly. Battery longevity in garage door remotes can vary greatly, with some lasting years and others requiring frequent replacement. In addition to requiring precision eAAA an improperly installed garage door is not only a potential nuisance but also a potential hazard eAAA this is a project that requires a lot of time, patience and muscle.CC0/stevepb/Pixabay
Garage Door WeightIn addition to being complex, garage door installation typically requires more than one person. In general, iteAAAAs best to set these high enough that very young children can eAAAAt reach them, but low enough that older children can. Use a level to ensure the tracks are properly aligned. Fortunately, if you can correctly diagnose the problem, it may be possible to take care of the problem yourself by breaking what can seem like an overwhelming challenge down into manageable parts.
